Dear <firstname><lastname>,

Many investors are asking how they can weather the current economic climate. Today, simply having a conventionally diversified equity portfolio and adding bonds is not enough.

A time-tested method of real wealth protection is to hold precious metals bullion. Gold, silver and platinum bullion have held their purchasing power for generations. Owning bullion ensures an investor has true portfolio diversification because, over the long term, bullion does not track the movement of equities or bonds.

Today, adding the protection of bullion to an investment portfolio is as easy as purchasing a mutual fund. Bullion Management Group offers BMG BullionFund, the only mutual fund that invests exclusively in equal amounts of gold, silver and platinum bullion. Not mining stocks, not paper certificates but actual bullion, purchased and held exclusively for their unitholders. Style drift is not possible.

BMG Gold BullionFund offers investors the same benefits in a fund that holds only physical gold.

Both BMG Funds are highly liquid, have no counterparty risk and are not dependent on the trading skills of a portfolio manager.

<firstname>, I'd like you to consider adding precious metals bullion to your portfolio to address the challenges and opportunities of today's capital markets. During our next meeting, we can discuss the role of debt and money supply in the economy, as well as the possibility of an inflationary spiral and how asset allocation can protect your portfolio.

Yours truly,
